

The citizens of Indiana have unanimously supported the freedom from incessant phone solicitation afforded by the Indiana Do Not Call List. I believe that if this petition is not overturned, a great many organizations will utilize the broad definition of "existing business relationship", defined as loosely as even having made a purchase, to deluge Indiana residents with more unwanted solicitation, utterly unrelated to, and outside of the scope of the transaction itself.